SHAKE-UP IN TREASURY DUE

A Sweeping Reorganization Is Ordered.

ACTION FOLLOWS THE DISMISSAL OF WILMETH

Senator Caraway Introduces a Resolution Asking for Dismissal of Officials.

Washington, April 2.—While the capital was kept a-titter today with rumors and reports of "scandals" and possible resignations of government employees, the administration started a sweeping reorganization of the United States treasury department, the great clearing-house of the government's business.

Exactly what lay behind this decision on the part of President Harding and his advisers was not made entirely clear.

Administration spokesmen said that politics was not involved in the general shake-up and that the treasury department, which embraces a score of bureaus was to be given a "house-cleaning" for business reasons.

The president's summary dismissal of James L. Wilmeth and twenty-seven divisional chiefs from the bureau of engraving and printing, was the first step in this shake-up, they said.

In the senate, Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas, introduced a resolution asking the president "if not incompatible with the public good," to explain to the senate his reasons for suddenly and without warning, lopping twenty-eight old and tried officers of the government from the federal payroll.

A resolution introduced in the house by Representative Moore, Democrat, of Virginia, went even further. It demanded an investigation of the wholesale dismissals by a special committee of the house, to be appointed by the speaker.

Threats Alleged.—Washington, April 2.—The Washington Times today printed a copyrighted story to the effect that President Harding was forced summarily to discharge James L. Wilmeth and other officials of the bureau of engraving because of threats made by bureau employees to publish a series of affidavits alleging that the printing of duplicate government bonds existed in the bureau.

ZERO WEATHER HERE FORTY-ONE YEARS AGO

Eighteen Inches of Snow on Ground April 1, 1881.

This brand of April weather may not appeal so strongly to most folks, but it has a good edge on the weather forty-one years ago according to Jonas Concklin, of north State street. The first day of April, 1881, saw about eighteen inches of snow on the ground with the mercury hovering at zero and a little below.

This was the result of five days of snow, which lasted until April 10 or 12. The winter began about the middle of November and with the exception of about two weeks in March the farmers were unable to do any farm work except the feeding. Seventeen days during the month of February the temperature went below the zero mark. With this handicap the farmers were able to get out their crops in pretty good shape, Mr. Concklin said.

AUTHOR AND ARTIST MAY FIGHT AGAIN

Carroll, Cal., April 2.—Revelation of hostilities in the feud between Harry Leon Wilson, famous writer, and Theodore Dreiser, famous artist, was being awaited today by Carrolites following the action of the author in appointing through his attorney that an attack be made.

Argyll Campbell, attorney for Wilson, voiced a sweeping denial of the reported attack.

On the other hand, Arthur Woolf, attorney for Dreiser, is emphatic that a "peace pact" was signed and that "negotiations" were in progress and the fate of the case was to become a foregone conclusion.

There were indications today that the attorneys might carry on the feud verbally—and that further blows would be received by the public.

SMALLER WOOL YIELD IS SEEN

Fewer Sheep in Country Than a Year Ago.

TEXAS IS ONLY STATE TO SHOW INCREASE

Little Likelihood That Decline in Production Will Be Offset by Weight of Clip.

New York, April 2.—According to summaries published in the annual issue of the Daily News Record, there are fewer sheep in the "territory" growing sections of the United States than a year ago by from 10 to 15 per cent.

Moreover, there seems to be little likelihood that this decline in sheep population will be offset, as far as the weight of the wool clip is concerned, by heavier fleeces this season.

On this basis, therefore, a smaller yield of domestic wool than was the case last year is promised.

In recent years nearly one-third of the country's clip has come from the five intermountain states of Utah, Nevada, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming, and a rough estimate of this year's yield from these states puts the figure at about 79,000,000 pounds. This total is divided as follows: Utah, 15,000,000 pounds; Nevada, 8,000,000 pounds; Montana, 15,000,000 pounds; Idaho, 18,000,000 pounds, and Wyoming, 25,000,000 pounds.

In general, growing conditions are reported to have been favorable during the last season, and this means a well-grown clip of light shrinkage wools. In the latter respect, this year's product is expected to be better than last year's.

All over the country, the fleeces have shown a tendency in recent years to increase in average weight and it is likely this estimate would show about 7.25 pounds to the fleece.

Texas is one of the few states in which the size of the sheep population has shown a tendency to increase during the past year, and this improvement has been offset, to some extent, by severe drought conditions in certain parts of that state.

Young Woman Is Found Dead in a Doorway.

SCREAMS AND SHOTS AWAKEN RESIDENTS

Husband Arrested at Mother's Home—Chaufeur Tells of Driving Couple to Suburbs.

Defiance, N. Y., April 2.—[Special.]—A young woman, twenty years old, of 101 1/2 West street, was arrested by Sheriff Henry W. Morse tonight on a charge of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of his wife, Irene Louise Holt, twenty-five years old, from whom he had been separated since January 14.

Mrs. Holt's body was found in the doorway of a home in Home Acres, fashionable east side suburb, late Saturday night after the occupants of the house had heard screams and several shots. She was bleeding, but died within a few minutes.

The young woman was identified by her mother, A. Handkerchief bearing the name "Bolt" had been found on the body.

The husband was questioned by the sheriff, coroner and district attorney. Bolt had been found in bed with their son at his mother's home and told authorities he had not seen his wife since their separation.

Questioning Chauffeur.—Authorities today also questioned Fred Tremblay, twenty-nine years old, of Coldwater, who admitted, according to the district attorney, that he drove Mr. and Mrs. Bolt to a spot near Home Acres. He said he had an engagement to take Mrs. Bolt to a party, and, having known Bolt previously, had told him.

It was arranged that he should keep the engagement, he told police, but Bolt should hide in the automobile until they reached an outlying spot where he could have a talk with his wife.

According to Tremblay the plan was successful. When they arrived at Home Acres, Tremblay left the car on a pretext, and Bolt revealed himself and began a conversation with his wife. They left the car and went toward Home Acres, Tremblay said.

Later, he said, he heard screams and shots. Mr. and Mrs. Bolt did not return and he drove back to the city alone.

Mystery Believed Solved.—Rochester, N. Y., April 2.—The mystery of the murder of twenty-two-year-old Irene L. Bolt, mother of two children, who was found shot to death in the vestibule of a house in Home Acres, near here, was believed to have been solved today when John J. Bolt, her husband, was arrested and charged with murder in the first degree, as a result of a confession made to the police by Fred Tremblay, nineteen.

Mrs. Bolt had married her husband when only fifteen years of age and had been estranged from him for some time.

According to the story told to police by Tremblay, he made a "date" with Mrs. Bolt at the instigation of her husband. Tremblay says he called for Mrs. Bolt in an automobile Saturday evening, concealing Bolt in a blanket in the rear of the machine. The latter, he says, shot his wife three times through the head.

BANDITS FAIL TO ROB CAPITAL BANK

Washington, April 2.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the Merchants Trust company bank at Fifteenth and H streets, just across the street from the United States treasury.

Three young men entered the bank, crowding around the teller's window, they made a concerted grab for all the currency in sight and fled. Only $2,000 was obtained and this was dropped in their flight.

Police captured one of the men, but the other two escaped.

CITY IN BRIEF

Stolen Watch and Chain.—Lola Gibson, of No. 416 Adams street, reported to the police Sunday that a watch and chain belonging to her had been stolen from her home.

Three Building Permits.—Three building permits were issued by the city clerk Saturday afternoon as follows: E. L. Williams, garage, Sugar street, $150; E. W. Shrock and J. T. Horner, garage, both containing one room, $100; Floyd Buzz, garage, Separation avenue, $75.

March Breaks Record.—The month of March was a record breaker in automobile transactions since the law went into effect requiring bills of sale to be recorded with the clerk of courts. During the month 212 bills of sale were filed with County Clerk M. L. Wilson.

R. G. Wilcox Home.—R. G. Wilcox, of south Grand avenue, who has been in the Kadium hospital in Columbus for the past six months suffering from a fractured left hip, came home yesterday. He is getting along fairly well. Mr. Wilcox, a machinist at the Marion Steam Sheet company's plant, was injured when he was thrown by an electric crane.

Pension Claims.—The mothers' pension claims paid at the office of County Auditor R. C. Becker, Saturday, for the month of March amounted to $465.46. The total pensions paid for the first quarter amounted to $335.50. The salaries paid for March amounted to $95 distributed as follows: Marion township, $56; Montponery township, $12; Prospect township, $19; and Salt Rock township, $10.

Found Part of Loot.—A wallet containing checks amounting to $100, 30 and order and receipt blanks and a book of order slips was found this morning by the engineer of the Marion Lumber company in the car house of the company on Oak street. The property was turned over to the police. It proved to be part of the loot stolen from the home of William Zahn, of No. 191 east Farmington street, last Wednesday evening, it being the property of Charles Heger, of Upper Sandusky, a brother of Mrs. Zahn. The $50 in money that was with the checks was missing.

Musicians' Union Meet.—Local No. 541, American Federation of Musicians, met Sunday afternoon in its hall on west Center street. The attendance was large and four members were taken in. It was decided to send but one delegate instead of two to the national convention to be held at Grand Rapids, Michigan, May 9. C. W. Davidson was elected delegate and L. E. Melster, alternate. Following the business session a lunch was served. The next meeting will be held May 7 at which time the delegate to the convention will be indicated.

Clothes Line Catches Fire.—A clothes line stretched over a gas jet in the kitchen at the home of Jacob Roeger, of No. 219 Marion avenue, caused a small blaze which resulted in a loss of $75 at 9:15 o'clock Sunday night. The burning line fell on some papers on the refrigerator and set fire to the refrigerator and also burned the doors and casing of a built-in cupboard. Both were badly damaged. The department No. 1 responded to the call, but the blaze was extinguished by Mr. Roeger before the arrival of the department.

Homes Bring $2,000.—Three houses on the side of the Road Hardway were sold at auction for $2,000 Saturday afternoon. Jim Dugan purchased the house farthest south on Orchard street and the middle house was bought by A. J. Brady. The house facing Center street at the corner of Orchard was bought by John Augusten. Twenty days have been given. Brady and Augusten for the removal of their houses and thirty days were given for the removal of the house purchased by Dugan.

Charles W. Kimpel has been appointed administrator of the estate of Caroline M. Kimpel, deceased.

BIG DECREASE IN PUBLIC DEBT

Reduced $334,051,296 in the Month of March.

INCOME TAXES FOR MONTH $393,382,045

Government Revenue from Income Taxes in March Reaches Total of $393,382,045.

Washington, April 2.—The public debt of the United States was reduced $334,051,296 in March, the treasury department announced today.

The decrease was made possible by the quarterly income tax payments. The total gross debt at the end of March was $2,141,616,493. The treasury stated.

Income Tax Revenue.—Washington, April 2.—Government revenue from income taxes in March amounted to $393,382,045, including payments by taxpayers of the first installment due on March 15, the treasury department announced today.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's original estimate was cut down, therefore, by more than $70,000,000.

The reaction will be larger, probably, when retrograding of the tax returns reveal that payments accepted by collectors in many instances were in settlement of taxes for years prior to 1921 as the result of decisions by the treasury.

Would Create Credit Body.—Washington, April 2.—Creation of the federal agriculture credit corporation with a capital stock of $200,000,000 for advancing credits to farming and livestock interests, would be provided under a bill introduced in the senate today by Senator Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina.

States High Schools MAKE BETTER CITIZENS

K. H. Marshall Addresses Exchange Club.

"A high-school education is worth while in dollars and cents, in Christian citizenship and in appreciation of life itself," said K. H. Marshall, principal of Harding high school, in addressing the weekly noon luncheon of the Exchange club at the Busy Bee cafeteria today. Dr. S. D. Gordon, of New York, spoke on the value of contact with Jesus as a means of reaching higher standards. Two violin solos were played by W. L. Brown, a senior at Harding high school, accompanied by Leroy Arquette, another senior. The musical numbers were excellent and were heartily applauded. A letter from the chamber of commerce was read requesting the club to name two members to be trustees of the Marion Welfare association which will have charge of the raising of all appropriations for charity and welfare work. They will be named by C. E. Schuad, president of the club.

"Tests taken in Brooklyn, New York and in Minneapolis," continued Mr. Marshall, "show that high-school training has paid high-school graduates about $25 or cash day passed in school. They also show that the ability of eight-grade graduate to increase his earning power ends at about twenty-one years, while the ability to increase earning power with the high-school graduate continues until the age of thirty-two."

"High-school education makes better citizens because it teaches them and makes it possible for them to appreciate the benefits of citizenship."

DECLARES DIVORCE IS ENEMY OF THE HOME

Dr. O. F. Laughbaum Gives the Fifth Sermon of Series.

CITES STATISTICS ON DIVORCE IN STATE

Pastor Declares Ohio Has Ten Causes for Divorce While the Bible Gives but One.

Declaring that divorce is an enemy of the home, Dr. O. F. Laughbaum, pastor of the First United Methodist church, pointed out that Rome went down when the home was destroyed on a sermon on "Divorce," the fifth of a series of seven sermons on marriage. The sermon was delivered Sunday evening and Dr. Laughbaum took as his text Genesis 2:24. "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother and shall cleave unto his wife and they shall be of one flesh."

"God planned the home by instituting marriage," Dr. Laughbaum said. "It is based on intelligent respect and true affection of husband and wife for each other. Marriage is not a civil contract, by which the parties agree to live together as long as it suits their caprice. It can not be annulled at will. The courts do not institute marriage and can not terminate it righteously, except in accordance with the law of Him who instituted it."

"Marriage unites for life the two hearts made one. Therefore shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be of one flesh." The two are indissolubly bound together for one life. Their individuality is not destroyed, but in loving confidence is controlled by the limitations of their united life.

"We make no apology for speaking on the subject of divorce. It is the privilege and duty of the pulpit to discuss those things which endanger society, affect the prosperity of the church and state, and immerse thousands in untold sorrow. The best home life produces the best national life. Rome went down when the home was corrupted and destroyed. France is imperiled because of lax views and consequent injury to the home. Divorce is an enemy of the home."

"As to the marriage ceremony, a religious service is good and binding everywhere, although not required by civil law, except in the state of Maryland, where a religious service alone constitutes a valid marriage. Since marriage is a divine institution, a religious service ought to be required by law everywhere as the only valid service and the ceremony should be performed only by ministers and priests."

Need Change in Conditions.
"This takes us back to the law of the middle ages, and is a black stain upon the principal fundamental institution of our country—marriage and the home. No wonder our country is cursed with numerous divorce cases. Through a laxity in respect to marriage and divorce, our country will suffer much in the future, unless some thing be speedily done to change conditions. The age of consent, the ceremony required, divorce and remarriage are such as to alarm every reasonable citizen."

"About twice as many divorces are granted to wives as are given to husbands. In Ohio the number is about three times as many granted to wives as are given to husbands. In this county in 1921 there were 272 marriages and 157 divorces applied for, and 147 divorces granted."

"Many are the causes of divorce and many are the evils resulting therefrom. It would be very interesting to review the history of divorce in other ages and in other countries, but we can give only a brief reference. In China, the parties desiring a divorce, break a pair of chop sticks in the presence of witnesses, and the divorce is granted."

"If the wife of a Turkoman asks his permission to go anywhere, and he says, 'No,' without adding, 'Come back again,' they are divorced. In Liberia, if a man is dissatisfied with his wife, he tears a veil from her face, and that constitutes a divorce."

"In our own country we are not behind those living in less enlightened lands in granting divorces for trivial reasons. In the state of Ohio alone, there are ten leading causes for which divorces may be granted, while the Bible gives but one cause."

"Under the head of cruelty, our state granted a divorce because the husband threw water over the wife's head, and threatened more. Another divorce was granted because the husband did not speak to his wife for a long time, and another because a husband tried to kick his wife and failed."

Should Be True Affection.
"How can we do away with the evils of divorce? If the instructions and advice of this series of sermons are followed, divorce cases will be very few. There should be proper physical, mental, moral and financial qualifications, controlled by national laws, and no marriage ceremony should be solemnized unless there is true affection existing between the contracting parties. And when a divorce is granted, the divorced parties should not be permitted to marry again within a least three years.

"In selecting a companion for life divine direction should be implored, and after marriage there should be abundance of prayer, common sense and forbearance, and husbands and wives should dwell together as much as possible, and not be separated every evening of the week by lodges, clubs and parties. And at all times let both husband and wife be more expressive of their appreciation of each other."

"It is not wise for a young couple to live with the parents on either side, but they should build a home of their own together. They should also advise with each other on all subjects, and the wife should know all about the husband's business affairs, and she will not make undue financial demands of him. And if her husband should be taken from her by death she would be better prepared to fight the battle of life by having a knowledge of her husband's business affairs."

"Troubles frequently arise when a young husband and wife fail to live within their means, and debts are contracted and the financial burden soon becomes too great to bear. Parents, teachers and ministers should give a course of scriptural and common-sense instruction to the rising generation on the important subject of marriage and the home, and do all they possibly can to create public sentiment against divorce."

"It is the happy marriage which strengthens the foundations of society, blesses communities, and builds the church and the state. Instead of separating, husbands and wives should grow old together, and be happy in each other's presence, though sickness pale the cheek, and poverty empty the bread tray, and death open the little graves, and the path of life be strewn with thorns from the marriage altar, with its wedding march and orange blossoms, down to the last farewell at the gate which leads to the 'City of the Dead.'"

"At the beginning of beginnings, the Almighty maker prepared a beautiful paradise for the home of the first happy pair, but the theme of one of the sublimest masterpieces in literature is 'Paradise Lost,' which tells the sad story of how this man and this woman forfeited their home in the beautiful garden of Eden."

"But this is not the only paradise that was lost and our prayer is, that for every paradise lost there may be a paradise regained, and may the angel of love dwell in every paradise, and may that angel stand at the gateway of every Eden with drawn sword to keep down the worst foe of the home—the unclean divorce."

ALL RADIO FANS ARE INTERESTED.

Federal investigation ought to be sure and swift, if it be true as charged, that there is monopolistic control in radio equipment.

Perhaps nothing of more potential worth in the past century has been discovered than radio activity, and the mastering of it by man is an astounding factor to be considered.

All over America today the curiosity of every man, woman and child, generally speaking, has been aroused. Curiosity has grown into studied interest.

Radio equipment has been the demand of the hour. Radiography is new. It has no dreamed-of possibilities. It is fascinating.

The telephone and the telegraph were wonderful inventions, but the discovery of the wireless is of transcendent importance to mankind. If there is a combination to control the supply of radio equipment, it is a conspiracy in restraint of trade and in violation of the so-called anti-trust law.

DUST ON OUR GLASSES.

Did you ever stop to think that your glasses needed cleansing?

The trouble with a lot of people today is that their glasses are spotted, and they can not see clearly. Their vision partially is obscured by the accumulated dust on their glasses.

This dust is not only on the glasses that great numbers of people are wearing upon their noses, but it is to be found on the windows of business houses, industrial plants, street cars, steam cars, and even our churches.

It's high time to begin getting this dust off before it becomes streaky and painfully noticeable. It not only impairs our mental vision, it affects our whole disposition, and we become complaining, whining, whimpering victims of "glass dust."

Let's all wipe off our glasses now, stop looking back and look straight ahead.

BEST SHORT STORY OF DIVINE ORIGIN.

IN THE WORLD OF THE RADIO

SOCKET RADIO PHONE
INVENTED BY SQUIER

A new development in radio by which music, news, lectures and other forms of speech can be received by attaching the usual receiving instrument to the electric lamp and illuminating the antenna as well as reflecting the suggestion of exact broadcasting in the air, was announced today by Major General Squier, its inventor, who is chief signal corps officer of the army.

The first public demonstration of the new "wired wireless" was held in the signal corps headquarters recently. The whole operation consisted of removing a bulb from a lamp on General Squier's desk, inserting the receiving plug in the same manner as electric fans, vacuum cleaners and flat irons are attached to the lighting circuits. The broadcasting station, it was explained, was connected with the lighting circuit through a lamp receiver at another point.

The invention is believed by signal corps officers to offer a great utility to owners of electric lamps everywhere, and, the general said, could bring to every home where there is an electric lighting system the benefits which have previously been broadcast through the air and received through the antenna. Another advantage claimed by the inventor is the relief to congestion of the air which it offers to a modified degree and which Secretary Hoover recently called upon the national wireless conference for a solution.

Broadcasting over great distances by use of the invention is believed to be possible, but that use has not been attempted as yet. The idea was conceived less than a week ago, General Squier said.

RADIO DICTIONARY

Watch This Column Every Day. It Will Help You Understand the Terms Used in Radio.

COULOMB—The unit of electrical quantity. The amount of electricity passing a point in a circuit when a current of one ampere flows for one second.

COIL, SPIDER WEB—An inductor and coil used in radio, would look like a spider web.

COIL, LATTICE WOUND—Multi-layer coil with wire wound in criss-cross fashion.

COIL, TUNING—Adjustable coil or inductor used in tuning.

COIL, TICKLER—Special coil used in radio receiving circuits of the regeneration type.

COIL, LOADING—Usually an adjustable coil or inductor used bringing longer wave lengths.

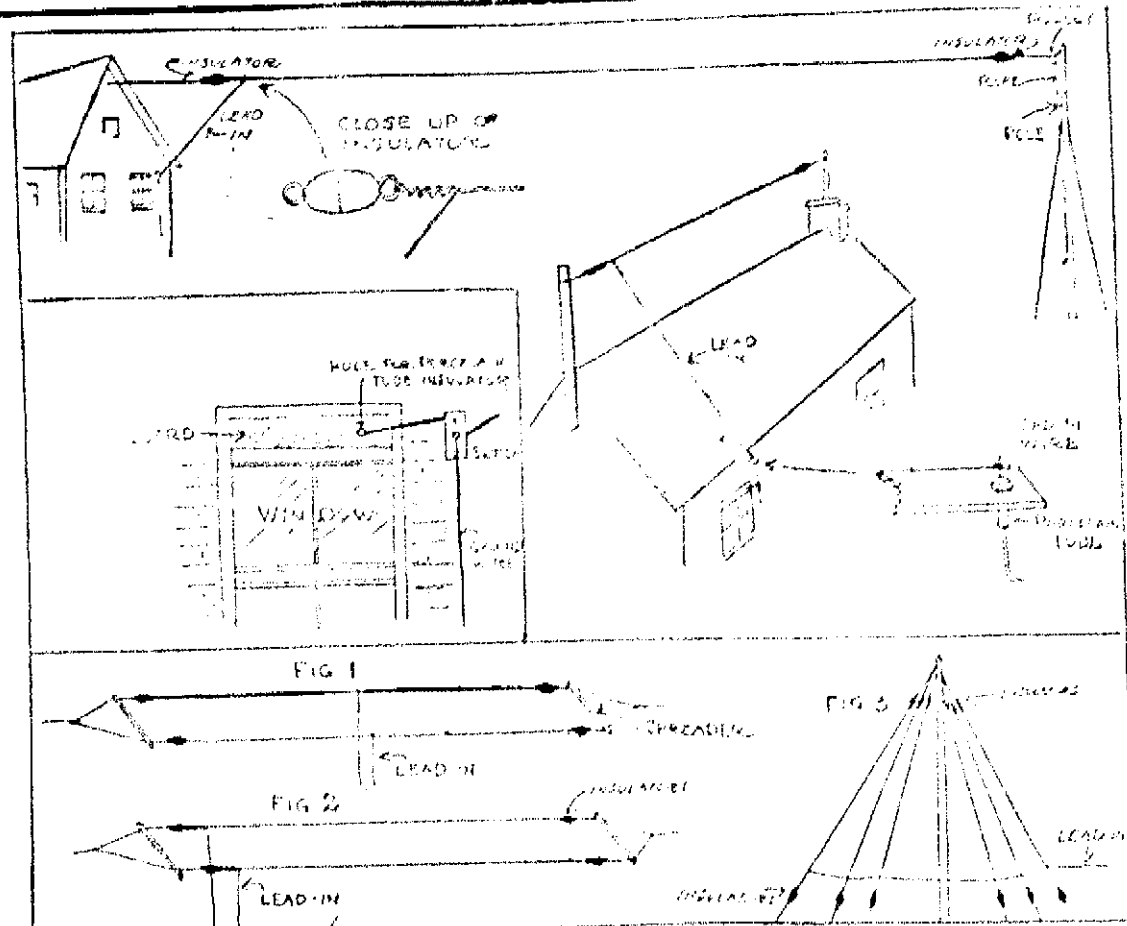

BY THE EDITOR

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the word "amateur." It is certainly used very loosely these days. The dictionary has this to say: "Especially one who cultivates any study or art from taste or attachment without pursuing it professionally."

There are many amateur radio experts who could give some of the professionals cards and spades. On the other hand, there is no small number of dabblers who only think they know something about radio and have been nicknamed "amateurs."

We must draw the line between novices and amateurs. An amateur, to be worthy of the name, should have a good, solid knowledge of the fundamentals of the art at least. The man who buys a fifteen dollar crystal receiving set can not be called an amateur merely because he committed this act. He may not know the difference between a crystal detector and a condenser.

It is an injustice to call such a man an amateur. He is of the species that should be called novices.

ALL THE MATERIALS THAT ARE NEEDED FOR THE AERIAL OR THE ANTENNA ARE SET FORTH HERE

Now we come to one of the most important items that enter into the success of any radio station, the aerial, or antenna, which for all practical purposes is a radiator of electric waves, as used in a radio telegraph or telephone.

As mentioned in one of the previous articles, an aerial, or antenna, is a conductor supported in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects. There are many types of aerials, such as the flat-top "T" type, Fig. 1; inverted "L" type, Fig. 2; umbrella type, Fig. 3; H type, Fig. 4; and the various types of vertical aerials, Fig. 5. These types of aerials are used mostly for transmitting purposes; but for receiving purposes only a single wire, suspended in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects, will serve our purpose well. To obtain the best results with this set it would be advisable, where it is possible, to have an aerial from 100 to 150 feet in length and thirty or forty feet high at both ends.

The necessary materials are: One hundred and fifty feet, or more, of No. 12 or 14 B. and C. gauge bare copper wire.

Two to four insulators, depending upon the conditions that must be met.

One porcelain tube.

How to Make Aerial.

The drawings are self-explanatory, and with a little advice you will be able to construct your aerial so as to obtain successful results.

First, Always bear in mind that the effectiveness of your aerial and the success that you will derive from your set depend mostly upon how effectively you have insulated your aerial. Spare no pains to do this job right.

Second, Avoid kinks, turns, twists in your aerial and lead-in wire. The aerial or antenna wire can be put through the hole in one end of the insulator and the staywire through the other. A lead-in wire can be fastened to any part of the aerial or antenna, or simply brought off as an extension of the main wire. Where the wire runs around a corner of the building, or under similar circumstances, an insulator can be fastened by means of a large screw to a wooden supporting stick. Then the lead can be put through or fastened to the hole in the extended end of the insulator.

Fourth, If due to conditions you must cut your wire, be sure that when you make the connection it is soldered.

Fifth, If a support can only be found for one end of the wire can run from the house to a tree or pole twenty feet or thirty feet high.

By an apartment house, rods, chimneys, pipes and other objects offer good natural supports.

WHY A VACUUM TUBE
WITH "B" BATTERY

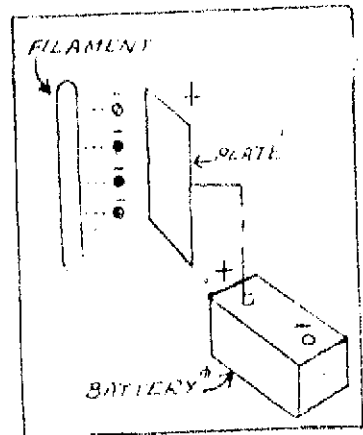

What is a "B" battery used for? That is a question that many beginners in radio ask. Before this question can be answered in an understandable manner it will be necessary to recall the meaning of the abstract terms, positive and negative.

We learned in physics that like charges of electricity repel each other, and unlike charges attract each other.

All matter is made up of molecules, atoms and electrons. Atoms, for molecules and electrons, form atoms. Scientists have shown that the electron is the smallest particle and that it is really nothing more or less than a negative charge of electricity.

A hot filament in a vacuum tube is constantly throwing off millions of these tiny electrons, which are too small to be seen by even the most powerful microscope. The positive pole of the "B" battery is always connected to the plate of the vacuum tube.

We can understand, then, why

How the negative electrons are attracted by the plate.

happens inside the tube when the filament is heated. All the tiny electrons are attracted to the plate, and they fly across the space between the plate and the filament at a speed of many thousands of miles a second. If the plate were negative, the electrons would be repelled and the vacuum tube would not function.

We must look upon electrons as little carriers of electricity. They make the vacuum tube a one-way conductor of electricity, and this gives the vacuum tube the rectifying effect it has upon current of high frequency.

If the filament within the vacuum tube is brought to too high a temperature, the positively charged plate will not be able to pull the electrons away fast enough and a great many will accumulate between the filament and the plate. These electrons move and crowd interfere with the free passage of other electrons, that leave the surface of the hot filament, and such electrons are attracted to return to the filament.

These electrons in the space between the two elements form what is known as a "space charge." Thus we can understand that the operation of any vacuum tube does not depend upon the brightness of the filament, as many believe.

BASEBALL

Grob Injures Hand.

London, Tenn., April 2. Harry Grob, star third baseman of the New York Giants, may be out of the game a week if he is injured today when he was hit by a ball thrown by the pitcher of the Memphis club the first and last game of their series. Grob had one of the fingers of his left hand badly split in the game at Memphis yesterday and was forced to retire.

Judge Thelma Kelley, who presided over the divorce suit of the actress and her husband, today said that the wife would have to leave the city.

COPPER-CLAD WIRE
WITH A STEEL CORE

Radio frequencies, currents, which are carried by wires at the sending and receiving stations, travel through a thin layer of metal along the exterior of the wire, because of the phenomenon known as "skin effect." The less of radio energy in the wire depends upon the electrical conducting properties of this exterior layer of metal.

Pure copper is the most efficient commercial metal insofar as electrical conducting properties are concerned, but lacks sufficient strength for many purposes. The objection to bronze is its poor electrical conductivity—approximately two-fifths as much as copper. Much more radio energy is lost in bronze wire than in copper of equal size.

At radio frequency, the core of a wire performs no electrical service because it carries no current. Therefore, it may, therefore, be made to perform a great mechanical duty. Hence an ideal wire for radio should have a core of high strength metal—steel—and an outer covering of high conductivity metal—copper.

Such antenna wire is made by welding permanently the protective and conducting outer coating of pure copper to the steel core of the multi-strand wire. It has the same non-rusting qualities as copper wire. At radio frequency it has practically the same conductivity as copper wire of equal diameter.

Copper-clad antenna wire is fifty per cent stronger than hard drawn copper wire of equal size and will stay up under severe stress and wind loads when other wires would be wrecked. Copper-clad antenna wire does not sag and stretch with subsequent breaking as does hard-drawn copper.
